Safety Slogan Prizes Today

Grand Award Winners to Be Named at Jamboree This Morning at Paramount.

A huge crowd of safety-conscious, slogan-writing youngsters is expected to pack the Paramount Theater at 9:30 a. m. today for the Safety Jamboree sponsored by the Traffic Safety Council as the climax to its traffic safety slogan contest.

Grand prize winners will be announced, and awards presented to those submitting the slogans judged best among the more than 12,000 entries in the contest.

A program of movies, featuring cartoon and sports films, will be shown, and local officials will speak briefly.

Jamboree invitation cards have been sent to children who submitted slogans.

A council spokesman asked parents of the younger children be sent with an older brother or sister.

Winners at Mount St. Joseph's Academy and Rutland High School were announced yesterday by William N. Ward, chairman of the Traffic Safety Council.

At MSJ, two girls, Katherine McDevitt of 137 Baxter St., a senior and Judy Levine of 35 Kendall Ave., a sophomore, were adjudged the winners.

The high school winners were both members of the freshman class, Carl Guyette of 45½ Madison St. and Betsy Tuttle of 41 Roberts Ave.

The four students will receive special high school awards of reserved seat tickets to the Southern Vermont Basketball Tournament.

James F. Hardie Jr., recreation superintendent, will serve as master of ceremonies at the jamboree.

Mayor Dan J. Healy, Raymond C. Taft Jr., president of the Rutland Chamber of Commerce, and a representative of the Traffic Safety Council will be guests.

Judges who selected the winning slogans were: Sgt. Albert Christie of the State Police; Police Chief J. Fred Carbine; David Rosen, automotive parts dealer; D. Anderson Hyde, Safety Council member and regional manager of the Vermont

Jamboree Draws 800

Second Grade St. Peter's Pupil
Is Grand Prize Winner in Safety Slogan Contest.

Traffic was nearly snarled on Center St. Saturday morning as 800 Rutland youngsters, a few accompanied by parents, crowded into the Paramount Theater for the Safety Jamboree which brought the Traffic Safety Council's slogan writing contest to an end.

A second grade pupil from St. Peter's school walked off with first prize in the contest with the slogan "Walk and ride on safety's side."

Grand prize winner is Martha Ann Moore of 96 South St. Second prize went to Paula M. Lamb of 87 Lafayette St., who entered the slogan "Safety Plus is a Must."

Sandy J. Larabee of Post Rd., a fifth grader at the Vermont Association for the Crippled Rehabilitation center was third with "Watch the driver; Be a survivor."

First prize was a $15 gift certificate to a local store and two passes to the theater. Second was a $10 certificate and two passes and third was a $5 certificate and two passes. Two Rutland High School and two Mt. St. Joseph Academy winners will receive their prizes in the mail, according to William N. Ward, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Traffic Safety Council, co-sponsor of the contest with the city recreation department.

MSJ winners were Katherine McDevitt of 137 Baxter St., a senior, and Judy Levine of 35 Kendall Ave., a sophomore. RHS winners were Carl Guyette of 43½ Madison St., a freshman; and Betty Tuttle of 41 Roberts Ave., also a freshman.

Senior Citizens' Club To Hold Valentine Party

The Senior Citizens' club of Rutland will hold a Valentine party today at the Recreation Center on Madison St., beginning at 1:30 p. m.

Persons interested in becoming members of the club have been invited to attend the festivities, which will feature an exchange of valentines, refreshments and games.

All members have been asked to bring a valentine.

Runners-up in the contest included Patricia Ann Gravelle of 90 Plain St.; St. Peter's; Richard Manus of 16 N. Main St.; Christ the King; Carol Anne Briggs of 33 Lincoln Ave., Longfellow; Marlene Malmgren of 28 Meadow St.; Longfellow; Karl H. Cheveller of 72 Park St., Meldon; Richard Perkins Jr. of 101 Maple St.; St. Peter's; Carole Ann Broza of 78 Plain St.; St. Peter's; Linda Stratton of Dorr Dr.; St. Peter's; Nancy Gouchoe of 30 Church St.; Immaculate Heart of Mary; Robert F. Bender of 14 Eastgate Ave., Dana; Frank Hinchee of 45 Park St., Christ the King; George Costello of 98½ East St., Christ the King; Dave Hobson of 97 Baxter St., Watkins Ave., School; Lauren Van Buskirk of 178 N. Main St., Lincoln; Martha Gouchoe of 50 Church St.; Immaculate Heart of Mary; Susan Looker of 78 Edgerton St., Dana; Joanne Cassidy of 91 Grove St., Christ the King; Patricia Jane Garafano of 274 West St., St. Peter's; Edward Fox of Pittsford, St. Peter's; Kenneth Stratton of 17 Crescent St., Lincoln; and June Cox of 116 Woodstock Ave., Immaculate Heart of Mary.

All the above received two passes to the theater.

At the jamboree the contestants witnessed several short films before the winners were called to the stage for the presentation of prizes.

Awards were made by Mayor Dan J. Healy, Samuel Stowell, representing the Chamber of Commerce; and

D. Anderson Hyde, representing the Safety Council.

James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of the Recreation department was master of ceremonies.

Assisting at the theater were Bradford N. Smith, Hugh Arthur, Louis Acavillo and Robert Kinney.

Invite Dancers From 4 States To Jamboree

Invitations to the square dance jamboree to be held Feb. 28 by the Rutland Recreation Department have been sent out to recreation groups and square dance enthusiasts throughout Vermont, Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

A workshop at Meldon School auditorium from 3 to 5 p. m. for the more enthusiastic and durable square dancers and callers will be added to the jamboree program.

The evening program will begin at 8 p. m. at the Rutland Memorial Armory with music by Burns Martin's orchestra.

Al Brundage of Stepney, Conn., rated one of the best square dance callers in the country, will make his first appearance in Vermont at the jamboree.

He will appear at both the afternoon and evening sessions of the program.

Tickets for the jamboree may be obtained from any member of the Adult Square Dance Club, which is sponsored by the Recreation Department.

Now in its second year, the club meets Monday and Thursday nights at the Madison St. Recreation Center.

Classes for novices are supervised by Richard Pavolsky, assistant director of recreation, who also calls for the dances.

Old-time square dances familiar to New Englanders are the mainstay of the program.

As an added stimulus, western style dancing is being introduced.

One result of Rutland's square dance program has been the formation of the Green Mountaineers, a demonstration team of six to eight couples, which has made exhibition appearances over a large part of the state.

The first public performance of the group was at the annual square dance festival in Norwich last year. Rutland sent both teen-age and adult sets to the affair.

With the help of Pavolsky, the Green Mountaineers evolved a new and different demonstration routine, drawn largely from the southern and western styles of dancing.

The team has appeared in Manchester, Brandon, Chester, Fairlee and Barre during the past year.

Last month the group made a special trip to Montpelier to dance at a session of the General Assembly.

New System for Square Dance Club Sessions

Square Dance Club sessions at the Recreation Center today will be run on a different system to encourage new and beginning members to attend, Richard Pavolsky, director, said yesterday.

Dances for beginners will start at 8 p. m. Intermediate dances will continue from 9 to 9:45 p. m., and advanced dances will run from 9:45 to 10:15 p. m.

Recreation Program

The state Board of Recreation report showing that Vermont communities are spending more than a quarter of a million dollars a year on organized recreation programs should be of special interest in this section because four of the six towns and cities which are spending the bulk of the money are in southern Vermont.

Rutland is one of the six. The others in this area are Woodstock, Springfield and Brattleboro, while Barre and Montpelier account for the other two top spots. Between them, these six communities have devoted over $100,000 a year recently to year 'round recreation programs. At the same time, some 40 or 50 other towns which provide one or more types of seasonal recreation program have been spending from $150,000 to $175,000 on this type of work.

The state board notes that a great deal of this spending has been made possible because of receipts or donations from sources other than the taxpayers. The average of all these non-tax monies during the two years covered by the board's report is almost 40 per cent of the total.

Rutland is perhaps not typical of the recreation set-up in the state as a whole, if only because it is one of the few places maintaining an all-year, all-age program with two full-time employees to conduct it. Yet it is worth noting that here, too, non-tax help has played and continues to play a large part in the growth and success of the program. Only a year ago the city's new recreation center—the old Madison Street school building—was opened after a complete renovation by the Rutland Lions club, which undertook the job as a civic project. A great deal of material was donated or provided at less than retail cost; and hours and hours of time were given to the job of fitting the building for its present use.

Though that is the most outstanding recent example of a big contribution to the city's program, there have been and continue to be many others. Rotary fieldhouse, an integral part of the system, was originally built by that civic club and turned over to the city a few years ago. In the early years of the recreation program here, parents and a lot of other interested persons gave hundreds of hours of time and money and materials worth hundreds of dollars a year toward helping to plan, supervise and carry out the various projects.

A decade ago Rutland had its swimming pool—and not much else in the way of organized recreation, outside of the schools. Many will remember that one year the citizens approved a recreation tax of 10 cents but the Board of Aldermen, at that time, couldn't see spending all that money (around $15,000 at that time). Despite some ups and downs, the city has come a long way since that time. This year's budget calls for some $24,000.

That, by the way, is no more—in net purchasing power—than it was proposed to spend a decade ago. But it is interesting to note what the taxpayers are getting for their money. Besides the swimming pool, which attracted over 31,000 visits from young and old last summer, and a series of playgrounds convenient to all sections of the city there are projects all year long, suitable to the seasons and providing recreation or relaxation for young and old.

Increasingly it is being recognized that "recreation" is much more than just "play." There are health and educational values in properly supervised play, worth far more to the individual and the community than the purely negative value, too often stressed in the past, of just "keeping the kids out of mischief."

And more and more we are coming to see that recreation should, by rights, be extended to all age groups—that providing guidance and a place to meet or work for those interested in hobbies or even just to get together (in the case of the elderly) may well be a legitimate civic responsibility and help to develop worth while community spirit.

We think Rutland is fortunate in the personnel of its city department. Much of the credit for the public acceptance of the program must go to the director and his assistant for the way they have managed it and "sold" it to participants, parents and the people. It would appear that the program is meeting definite civic needs, that its popularity is continuing to attract participants and volunteer aid and that, in short, it is giving the taxpayers their money's worth.

Similar public acceptance and support are evident in the other communities which are maintaining major recreation programs; and the fact that each year sees more Vermont towns joining the list of those operating some form of recreation project is evidence that the word is getting around that this type of tax-supported activity is worth while.

MAYOR HEALY DOES IRISH JIG: An unscheduled part of the Rutland Senior Citizens Club's St. Patrick's party held yesterday at the recreation center was an Irish dance solo by the mayor.

Senior Citizens Club To Observe St. Patrick's Day With Social Event

The biggest social event to date of the rapidly-growing Senior Citizens Club sponsored by the Rutland Recreation Department will be at St. Patrick's Day party next Wednesday at the Madison St. Recreation Center.

The fun-loving oldsters will gather at 3 p. m. in honor of the patron saint of Ireland.

During the next five and a half hours they will play games, sing, be entertained and eat (twice).

Guests of the club will be Mayor Dan J. Healy, Mrs. Mary McMahon and Robert Van Buskirk, members of the Recreation Advisory Board, and Mrs. A. O. Brungardt, state director of recreation.

The senior citizens have been asked to wear something "loud and green" to match the Irish decorations of green and white.

The party will get underway with the entire group participating in novelty games under the direction of James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, and Richard Pasvolsky, assistant superintendent.

Supper will be served at 5:30 p. m. by Mrs. Herdic, Mrs. Ernest Cameron and Mrs. Gerald V. Grady. The menu will include tomato juice, crackers, ham, potato salad, peas, coffee or tea.

Ice cream and cake will be served at the end of the evening.

The entertainment program scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m. will have songs by a police quartet, a square dance demonstration by the Green Mountaineers and community singing.

Members of the police foursome are Sgt. Raymond R. Mooney, Patrolmen Francis A. Ryan and Emmett J. Fleming and Special Officer Richard J. Burke.

Leading the community singing will be Van Buskirk with an accordion and Mrs. Grady at the piano.

A social hour will follow the entertainment.

Members of the club planning to bring guests have been asked to notify the Recreation Department in advance.

Organized last October with six members, the Senior Citizens Club meets every Wednesday afternoon.

Numbering 19 members on Jan. 17, the group has now increased to 32.

Mayor Dances Irish Jig At Citizens' Party

An Irish jig danced by Mayor Dan J. Healy featured the entertainment at the Senior Citizens' Club St. Patrick's party, held last night at the Recreation Center with more than 70 people present.

Mayor Healy joined in the square dancing in the afternoon and then added his own brief contribution to the entertainment. Mrs. Mary McMahon, chairman of the aldermanic recreation committee, was also present at the festivities in the green-and-white decorated hall.

After the afternoon dancing, a ham supper was served, prepared and served by Gerald Grady, Mrs. James F. Herdic Jr., and Mrs. Ernest Cameron.

The Green Mountaineers square dance team led by Richard Pasovsky, assistant recreation director, gave an exhibition of square dances after supper. Included was a unique dance in which four men sashayed around with brooms as partners instead of women.

The police quartet, consisting of Sgt. Raymond Mooney, and Officers Francis Ryan, Richard Burke and Emmet Fleming, entertained with four songs. A social hour closed the party which was described by Recreation Director Herdic as "one of the best we've ever had."

Kiwanis Club Hears Report On April Singing Contest

Two speakers were the program of the evening at the meeting of the Rutland Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Bardwell Tuesday night with Dr. S. S. Wysolmerski, president, in charge.

James F. Herdic Jr., recreation director, talked on the future program of the Recreation Department, with emphasis on the projected Barbershop Quartet contest which is slated to start April 14.

Herdic explained that the contest will be open to any club or group of individuals wishing to enter a quartet.

John Dye, Rutland High School

senior, talked on plans for the formation of a Kiwanis Key Club at the high school. The Kiwanis Key Clubs are "junior Kiwanis" groups which function as service clubs at the teen-age level.

Rams Notch 30-24 Win To Grab Junior Title In Recreation League

A 30-24 victory over the Cards at the Rutland High School Gym Saturday clinched the Rutland Recreation Department's Junior Basketball League Championship for the Rams who wound up the campaign a full game ahead of the Panthers in a torrid race.

In fighting off the Cards, the Rams averted a deadlock because the Panthers had an easy time in beating the Bruins, 76-35, in the final game of the triple-header that ended the campaign. The Giants opened the session with a 43-34 victory over the Bears.

Harry Kent, John Anderson and Ernie Goodrich pegged the Giants to the victory, getting stiff opposition from the Bears' Art Bowker and Pete Sloan. The Rams rallied on the shooting of Stratton Anagas and George Shelye to knock off the Cards whose chief support came from the shooting of Bruce LaSante and Johnny Hansen.

Ken Wisell, Dick Bowen, Tom Keeffe and Buzzy Grady fired the Panther attack, bettering the efforts of the Bruins' Joe Cocklin and Wayne King.

The final standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Rams	8	2	.800
Panthers	7	3	.700
Bears	5	5	.500
Cards	4	6	.400
Giants	4	6	.400
Bruins	2	8	.200

City Ping Pong Tournament Date Is Set

Area ping pong artists were notified yesterday to begin warming up for the third annual ping pong tournament conducted by the Rutland Recreation Department.

The one-night tourney will get underway April 2 at 7 p.m. at the Madison St. Recreation Center.

Joe Sherburne of Rutland, 1952 champion of both the junior and adult divisions, is expected to be back to defend his title in the adult division.

He will be ineligible for the junior division, which is for those 17 and under.

The midget division, being conducted this year for those 13 and under, was won last year by Robert Grady of Rutland.

The age limits of the junior and midget divisions have been lowered one year for this year's tournament, according to James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation.

Advance registration for the tournament may be made at the Recreation Department office in City Hall.

Americans Beat Nationals In Midget All-Star Battle

Tony Russo became riled in the last period of the Midget Basketball League All-Star game at the Community House Saturday to lead the American team to a 29-24 victory, giving the Americans the title in the first annual All-Star exhibition.

The Nationals, flashing a well-balanced offense that featured the shooting of Dave Clifton, Johnny Notti, Walt Scott, Bundsie Keeffe Jr. and Jimmy Layden, pulled into a 14-7 halftime lead as a result of a 10-point uprising in the second period.

Scott's six points and two each by Keeffe and Layden, built up the

Square Dance Club Formed In Rutland

Formation of a square dance club by a number of enthusiasts of the swing-your-partner style of dancing was announced yesterday by John Dunham, 112 Plain St., president pro tem of the new organization.

The club, which does not yet have an official name, was formed by a number of those who have been attending the Monday and Thursday evening square dance sessions at the Recreation Center on Madison St. About 40 couples have expressed interest in becoming charter members of the club when organization is completed.

Officers named, in addition to Dunham, for the present are: Vice president, George Conlon, 15 North St. Ext.; secretary, Mrs. Helen Dunham, 112 Plain St.; and treasurer, Raymond Catozzi, 103 Bellevue Ave.

The officers will set up committees to write a charter and organize the club on a permanent basis.

Meanwhile, Assistant Recreation Director Richard Pasvolsky announced that the Thursday night square dancing group will meet from now on at the Meldon School auditorium, starting this week. Pasvolsky said the move was necessary because rapidly growing numbers of square dancers made it impractical to hold the dances at the Recreation Center. The Meldon group will dance from 8 to 10:30 p.m. and the Monday Recreation Center group will dance from 8 to 10 p.m.

Pasvolsky said there will be no charge for dancing this week at the Meldon School and that all are welcome as usual to come and dance, regardless of whether or not they are interested in joining the club.

Over 70 Show Interest In 'Hot Rod Derby'

More than 70 Rutland youngsters have shown interest in entering the "Hot Rod Derby" to be held on Center St. hill June 13 under joint sponsorship of the Exchange Club and the city Recreation Department.

This was reported last night at the regular meeting of the club, held in Prouse's restaurant, by Louis T. Accavillo, general chairman for the event. Rules and instructions for building racers eligible to compete are available from him.

Additional donations to the club's White Elephant Auction, to be held July 10, were announced by the auction chairman, Lionel J. Carboneau. These include mayonnaise, 24 pounds of oleo and a man's bicycle—used but with new tires. Proceeds of the auction, as of the rod derby, will go to the club's charity fund.

Tentative plans for a fund-raising mystery and magic show in mid-August were also discussed at the meeting, conducted by Clark H. Mason, president.

Issue Call For City Recreation Summer Help

Recreation Superintendent James F. Herdic Jr., issued a call yesterday for playground and swimming pool supervisors for the summer season.

Applications may be made at the Recreation Department office in City Hall.

Herdie said he hopes to have his expanded staff for the summer lined up by the March 18 meeting of the Recreation Advisory Board.

The department will employ nine girls and five boys for city playgrounds and three girls and three boys at the municipal pool.

Experience such as camping, student teaching and similar activities will be considered in hiring playground supervisors.

The department requires at least a senior life saving certificate, and preferably an instructor's rating, for those employed at the pool.

All applicants must be Rutland residents.

Second Annual Model Plane Exhibit Set

The Model Airplane Club, conducted by the Rutland Recreation Department will hold its second annual exhibition and contest tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the Madison St. Recreation Center.

Model airplanes, boats and racing cars built by the boys during club meetings Monday and Tuesday afternoons will be exhibited.

Models to be shown range from the old Spanish galleon to the modern jet airplane.

The club, organized to teach members the correct techniques in building all types of models, is instructed by James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation.

Robert Eastman, who has donated prizes for the winners, will serve as judge. Recreation Department awards will be presented to all contestants and members of the club.

All airplanes in the exhibition will be displayed in the window of Eastman's store on Merchants Row for a week after the contest.

Members of the club have been asked to bring their models to the Recreation Center after school tomorrow afternoon.

Carl Anderson Winner Of Model Plane Contest

Carl Anderson won first prize in the model airplane contest sponsored by the Rutland Recreation Department Thursday night at the Madison St. Recreation Center.

Daniel Collins was awarded second prize, and Robert Hill was adjudged third prize winner from about 30 entries.

Robert Eastman, who donated the prizes, and Paul Hughes were the judges. The winning entries will be exhibited in a window of Eastman's store next week.

The exhibition and contest, attended by about 55 persons, marked the close of the model airplane class for this year. The club will be resumed next fall.

Abuse of Play Center Prompts Restrictions

Plans to clamp tight restrictions on activities at the Madison St. Recreation Center were mapped yesterday by Mayor Dan J. Healy and Recreation Superintendent James F. Herdic Jr.

The action was planned in the wake of parental complaints that the center has been used as a "headquarters" in the recent wave of juvenile delinquency in the city.

According to complaints made to the mayor by disturbed parents, the recreation center has been used as an "excuse" by teen-age boys to get out at night.

The converted school house, now in its second year as a recreation building, has also been used as a meeting place for boys planning "joy rides" in stolen cars and other acts of juvenile delinquency, parents have claimed.

No action will be taken for the remainder of the season, but the system will be drastically changed next fall, Mayor Healy said.

The recreation schedule calls for all activities at the center to close in two weeks, and the building will not be open after May 2.

Plans developed by the mayor and Herdic at yesterday's conference will be recommended to the Recreation Advisory Board for adoption before the center is reopened next fall.

The program at the center would be restricted from Monday through Thursday to specified activities or classes, and only those enrolled for the groups meeting on that night would be admitted. They would be required to register.

The center would be "open for general recreation only on Friday and Saturday nights, according to the plans.

At present the building is open every night for playing ping pong, games and other recreation, as well as for special groups.

Herdic said the center has averaged every day an attendance of about 50 who are not there for any special activity.

These would be barred if the planned restrictions go into effect.

80 Children Take Part in Exercises At Recreational Ctr.

More than 100 parents and friends attended a demonstration of baton twirling, rope skipping and square dancing classes held last night at the Madison St. Recreation Center.

About 80 children who have been attending the classes participated in the exercises under the direction of Richard Pavolsky, assistant superintendent of recreation.

Dawn Sheehe won the rope skipping speed contest.

A baton twirling demonstration which included marching formations, letter formations and mass routines opened the exhibition.

Rope skipping with an exhibition of fundamentals, criss-cross, long rope, special and novelty routines as well as the speed contest, followed.

The country dance class demonstrated contra, square, folk and play party game dances.

Rutland Daily Herald

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1953.

FROM ARTICLE XVIII OF THE VERMONT BILL OF RIGHTS (Adopted July, 1777)

"That frequent recurrence to fundamental principles and a firm adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, industry and frugality are absolutely necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty and keep government free."

An Ounce of Prevention...

It may be arguable whether or not a recent series of juvenile "difficulties" in and near Rutland constitutes a wave of delinquency or represents a breakdown in the city's crime prevention and law enforcement efforts. It is natural enough to try to fix blame for the occurrence of such incidents—chiefly a series of car thefts that, to all appearances, were not stealing for purposes of gain but "borrowing" for the sake of a thrill and a few miles of fast riding.

But trying to fix the blame, at this stage of the proceedings, has many of the aspects of locking the barn door after the horse is stolen. Most of the cars taken had the keys left in the lock. The owners, therefore, are partly at fault, in that those particular cars would not have been taken. Yet if a gang or group of youngsters is out after a thrill, it can hardly be said that lack of keys would for long have prevented either theft or some form of vandalism. Trying to blame the cars' owners is analogous to blaming a man who walks home with his week's pay in his pocket for a hold-up in which he was beaten and robbed.

Talking of cutting down or restricting the city's recreation program simply because the Madison St. center was reportedly used as the (on at least one) occasional meeting place of the youngsters involved in the unfortunate incidents is, in our opinion, even more of a mistake. Short of a police-state system in which every person would have to report on his whereabouts every half hour, we know of no way in which people, young or old, can be kept from meeting, somewhere.

The steps of City Hall, a soda counter, a street corner—anywhere would have served as well for the alleged illicit rendezvous had there been no recreation center. A church affair was, in fact, used as an excuse to leave home by one of the youngsters. Shall we therefore forbid the holding of such services or meetings?

No, there's no simple answer to the question, "Where does the blame belong?" And it is no answer at all to remove any of the opportunities for getting together for good or useful purposes; if anything, they should be extended, with even more varied chances for constructive (or at least harmless) fun.

Suppose one looks at the recent events this way: Four, or six or maybe a few more boys got into trouble, more or less serious. How many of the 400 or more frequently using the center might have joined them—and been in trouble now, too—had there been no recreation center or its equivalent? As in highway safety statistics, nobody can tell, in figures, how many Rutland youngsters had fun and thrills enough and kept out of trouble because of their interest in the games and classes at the center; the troubles that DON'T happen never show up in black and white; yet we know that efforts to prevent them do get results and are worth while.

Instead of viewing these events in a backward glance, might it not be more profitable to look forward to a preventive program? Last December this newspaper called attention to an experimental program in New York City in which a psychiatric team has been assigned to two of the "toughest" schools. With teacher co-operation, the team endeavors to spot, investigate and help youngsters who show signs of anti-social development. These signs can be noted in the early grades. Work with them and their families—some of the latter turn out to be among those usually thought least likely to have children who'd ever get into trouble—has already (about a year) resulted in a major reduction in vandalism and delinquency.

Prevention seems expensive; but how expensive in relation to belated efforts at punishment or cure? As we noted in December, "It is costing Vermont about $700,000 a year to maintain its corrective institutions—about $225,000 for Weeks school alone. What would it be worth to be able to prevent most, or even a half or a quarter, of this expense? Can we estimate the social and economic gain of keeping a youngster out of trouble?"

Prospective Caddies To Meet at Play Center Today

A meeting for boys interested in caddying at the Rutland Country Club this summer will be held today at 3:30 p.m. at the Madison St. Recreation Center.

Robert S. Franzoni, president of the Country Club, will talk on what the club expects of its caddies and outline the program of playing days and golf lessons for the boys.

More than 80 prospective caddies attended the initial meeting two weeks ago. The caddies will officially begin working June 1 under Jack Dye, caddy master.

James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, is organizing the caddies.

Tennis Courts Slated to Open This Week-End

Tennis courts at Rotary Field will open for the season this week-end, weather permitting. James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, said yesterday.

The four clay courts will be open from 10 a. m. to noon, 1 to 5 p. m. and 6 p. m. to dark on week-days. No morning sessions will be held Sundays, but the courts will be open Sunday afternoons and evenings.

Courts may be reserved in advance for hourly sessions, which will begin and end on the hour. Herdic said.

A charge of 10 cents per person per hour will be made, and season tickets will be sold for $2.50.

Proceeds will be used to help maintain the courts.

Persons using the courts must wear tennis sneakers, Herdic said. Basketball shoes will be barred.

Six tennis rackets donated by the Rotary Club last year are available on a first come, first served basis.

Recreation Department personnel have spent three weeks getting the courts in shape for the season's opening.

Ernest Cameron, department maintenance man, will be in charge of the courts.

Midget League Tryouts Are To Start Monday

Try-outs for the third annual Midget Baseball League will be conducted next week by the Recreation Department for boys from 9 through 12. James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, announced yesterday.

They will start Monday at 4 p. m. at the Meadow St. playground for prospective midget leaguers from Park St., Watkins Ave., Kingsley and St. Peter's Schools.

Tuesday at 4 p. m. at Rotary Field try-outs are slated for boys from Lincoln, Dana, Longfellow, Christ the King, Meldon and Immaculate Heart of Mary Schools.

Coach Leo Keeff of Rutland High School will again be director of the league. George Laird will be the umpire.

Herdic said coaches are needed for several of the nine teams in the league.

The team sponsored by the Exchange Club won the league championship the first two years.

Other sponsors are the Kiwanis Club, Elks, Eagles, Wilson's Sports Equipment Company, The Herald, Stowell Corporation, B'nai B'rith and Rotary Club.

League play is scheduled to begin the second week in June with a game every evening at 6 p. m.

Meadow St. Playground Shelter Planned

Construction of a shelter house and other improvements will be started soon at the Meadow St. playground, James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, said yesterday.

The building planned for the area, 35 by 25 feet, was staked out yesterday.

The shelter will contain toilet facilities and will serve as a warming house for the skating rink in the winter, Herdic said.

Co-operation of the Department of Public Works has been secured for putting in the foundation.

Herdic said he and Ernest Cameron, recreation maintenance man, will build the shelter.

The grass planted two years ago is being rolled, and plans have been made to plant a buckthorn hedge to replace the fence taken down, the recreation head said.

A new backstop will be erected for the baseball diamond developed last year.

Other facilities at the playground include swings, jungle gym and horseshoe pits. Teeter boards and a sandbox will be moved in again this summer.

A bocci court is among improvements planned for the future.

The playground, soon to be opened for the third season, drew 11,500 visits last summer.

The property, on the west side of Meadow St. between School St. and Convent Ave., is used by the city under a 25-year lease from the Sisters of St. Joseph for a nominal sum.

Herdic Named to NE Recreation Committee

James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, has been appointed to the New England District advisory committee of the National Recreation Association, according to an announcement from Joseph Prendergast, executive director.

Jack Penny, Brattleboro superintendent of recreation, has also been named to the advisory group.

Herdic and Penny will serve with 13 other recreation executives from Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island in helping to improve the quality of recreation services in New England.

Senior Citizens Supper At Recreation Center Today

A bean supper will be served to the Senior Citizens Club at 5 p.m. today at the Madison St. Recreation Center, with club activities scheduled to get underway at 3 p.m.

The program will include square dancing, community singing and games. A social hour will be held after the supper.

Mrs. Gerald V. Grady, Mrs. Ernest Cameron and Mrs. James F. Herdic Jr., are in charge of the supper. Most of the food is being donated, and the rest will be purchased from the dues of members.

Herdic, superintendent of recreation, and Richard Pasvolsky, assistant superintendent, will direct the affair, which is open only to members and eligible persons wishing to join the club.

Golf Lessons For Housewives Are Scheduled

Business girls and housewives who want to get their golf swings into the groove before the season opens will have an opportunity at weekly classes to be conducted by the Rutland Recreation Department.

James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, said classes intended primarily for beginners (or "duffers") will start next Tuesday at the Recreation Center for a six-week period.

One section, scheduled for housewives, will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. The second group, mainly for business women, will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Richard Pasvolsky, assistant superintendent of recreation, will conduct the classes.

Those interested may register at the first class or sign up before Tuesday at the Recreation Department office in City Hall.

A nominal charge will be made to pay for mats and plastic balls.

Students should bring a middle-distance iron to the classes, Herdic said.

Plan Formation Of Barbershop Quartet in City

The Recreation Department is looking for basses, baritones and tenors who like to make close harmony to the strains of "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

The department is planning to revive an old-time custom with a "barbershop quartet" contest to be held April 14 at the Madison St. Recreation Center.

Invitations have been sent out to 32 organizations, business and industrial concerns and individuals to participate in the contest with the formation of one or more quartets.

The group doesn't necessarily have to be polished, as long as there are four men who like to sing. James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, explained.

Several groups have already expressed intentions of appearing in the contest, he said.

George H. Low, director of music education in the public schools, will be in charge of the affair.

Each group will be required to sing two songs from a list of four which they submit. The judges will select one, and the quartet may make its own selection from the remaining three.

Entries must be made to the Recreation Department by April 10.

First Casting Class for City Youth Is Set

D. A. Hyde surrounded by group of future fishing enthusiasts at the Rutland Recreation Center as he teaches them rudiments of casting. Looks like Vermont fish will face a new army of fishermen this season. The instruction is part of the city's recreation department's program.

The first meeting of a new class for young people in the art of bait, or plug, casting will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the Madison St. Recreation Center.

The weekly classes are open to boys and girls between 11 and 16.

The class instructor will be D. Anderson Hyde of Proctor, who has volunteered his services to the Recreation Department without charge.

Hyde has had many years of fishing experience with all types of equipment. He feels that if young people are started properly, with good equipment, they will realize far greater enjoyment out of the sport.

If enough interest is shown, the classes may be continued throughout the spring, and further instruction in the use of the fly rod and spinning rod will be given to provide a well-rounded course in the use of fresh water fishing equipment.

The conservation of natural resources, good sportsmanship in the sporting field and the necessity of observing the laws pertaining to fishing will be stressed during the course.

The classes will be under the supervision of James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation.

The rod, reel and other materials necessary for the course are being donated to the department by the Wilson Sports Equipment Company.

At the end of the course, the rod and reel used for class instruction will be awarded to the best student.

Young Seniors

"Youngsters" 50 years old can now become senior citizens, with all the rights and privileges of the Rutland Recreation Center's Senior Citizens club.

Richard Pasvolsky, assistant recreation director, announced the lowering of the "age limit" as the result of a meeting of the club Wednesday at the Center on Madison St.

At present, persons 65 or over can belong, but at a meeting of the club Wednesday the group decided to get more members by admitting the "junior set" from the age of 50 up.

The group's program includes checker and card games, ping-pong, shuffleboard, as well as group activities.

New Skating Rink Planned

Announcement Made by Recreation Department as Air Clears Following Criticism.

Plans for a new skating rink at the Meadow St. Playground were announced yesterday by James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, as smoke caused by an attack on the city's inadequate skating facilities drifted away from the city.

The ice on all the city's potential rinks would probably have been melted early yesterday by the heat generated as a result of the sharp slash at rink facilities by the Recreation Committee of the Rutland Chamber of Commerce.

The committee slapped at available facilities and called for another rink, naming Main St. Park as a suitable site.

In its attack, the committee blasted what it termed "poor supervision" at the Rotary rink, adding a number of customers were allowed to play hockey while small children were learning to skate.

That statement touched off a minor explosion among Recreation Department officials, Mayor Dan J. Healy and the Chamber.

Healy was angry because he felt the attack was an attempt to carry the matter over his head.

He was reported to have abandoned plans to plow out the road to Rocky Pond for its use as a skating rink early yesterday after reading the article in The Herald in which the Chamber committee attacked the skating situation.

Heric was angry because he felt the charge of "poor supervision" had been hurled at his department. He said yesterday the Recreation Advisory Committee had already decided additional ice was needed and had recommended another rink at the Meadow St. Playground.

Chamber officials were angry because they had not been forewarned of the blast and because they were unaware additional facilities were being planned.

By late afternoon the temperature was dropping as the controversy cooled.

"No comment," Mayor Healy jovially announced.

Heric announced the plans for the new rink, which is to be opened in a few days. He pointed out, however, the rink would be opened only during the day.

Heric said the new rink was suggested by Alderman Arthur E. Crowley at the meeting of the advisory committee Wednesday. He said the Department of Public Works was plowing the snow in the area, while the Water Department will handle the spraying of the rink.

"The rink will accommodate skating during afternoons and weekends," Herdic explained.

"There will be no lighting facilities there and there will not be a warming-house," he added.

In a statement last night, Robert S. Franzoni, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Recreation Committee, said Herdic had discussed plans for the new rink with him.

He said the Chamber group did not mean to cast reflection on the Recreation Department, adding the committee has great respect for the department.

"We were, however, concerned over crowded conditions at the rink," Franzoni stated.

He attributed the conditions to an increased interest in skating. He said any further step towards increased facilities must be based on Herdic's and the city's decision on the possibility of obtaining money and a staff for additional skating facilities.

"The Chamber's interest is not to usurp the department's powers, but to assist the department by calling attention to the need," Franzoni explained.

He complimented Herdic's work as head of the department and pointed to the ski tow at the Rutland Country Club as an outstanding example of the superintendent's work.

"We want to help in any way possible," he concluded.

Rocky Pond Skating Rink Under Study

Mayor Dan J. Healy indicated last night the city was considering opening the snow blocked road to Rocky Pond and clearing ice there as an auxiliary skating rink to relieve the over-crowded and congested conditions on the present rink at Rotary Field.

The mayor said he was "toying" with the idea of making a test run to Rocky Pond with the city's latest piece of snow removal equipment due to arrive this week.

The new equipment is a new tractor driven sidewalk plow.

"I can think of no better place to test the equipment," Mayor Healy said.

The present city skating rink is being taxed to capacity, city officials said.

They quoted the average attendance at the rink since it was opened the Monday before Christmas as between 250 and 300 daily.

1/8/52 City Skating Facilities Hit

Chamber Recreation Group Urges Another Rink in Main St. Park.

Declaring the city's skating facilities are inadequate, members of the Recreation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce last night voted to authorize Robert S. Franzoni, chairman, to discuss the matter with officials of the City Recreation Department.

Franzoni will investigate the possibilities of building an additional rink in Main St. Park, he said last night.

A survey of the crowds at the Rotary rink, Franzoni said, showed the facilities are inadequate and the supervision poor. "Boys are playing hockey, while tots are trying to learn to skate," he explained.

He said Main St. Park would offer a central location for a rink.

Franzoni said he will probably discuss the proposition with James F. Herdic, superintendent of recreation, today.

The committee also voted to ask local service organizations to cooperate in the construction of 25 picnic areas in the Rocky Pond Recreation Area. Fireplaces and benches will be constructed in the 25 areas. Another Rocky Pond Day will be held in the spring to complete the road to the recreation spot. It is expected the service clubs will participate in the construction of the picnic areas at that time.

During the winter, Franzoni said, a team of men with Harold M. Valiquette in charge will blaze trails around the pond.

Members of the committee voted to designate the road, leading to the pond from the end of Evergreen Ave., as "Birmingham Trail" to honor Reginald Birmingham, who donated much of the machinery used in the road's construction.

Roland Q. Seward was acting chairman at last night's session, since Franzoni was absent from the meeting.

Skating Rink Drawing 300 People Daily

Rutland's skating rink at Rotary Field has been attracting between 250 and 300 men, women and children each day it has been open since the Monday before Christmas, according to James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation.

The only day the rink has not been open since the first ice was made for skaters was Christmas Day, Herdic said.

The rink is open regularly from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 9 p. m., with an additional half hour of skating allowed Friday and Saturday nights.

Saturday the rink is open from 10 to 12 in the morning and from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Sundays it is open from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m.

The ice at the rink is in excellent condition and is kept that way through nightly flooding, Herdic said.

One maintenance man is kept at the rink each night from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m. and averages from 5 to 6 floodings a night. Another maintenance man, who also serves at the Madison St. Center, also devotes part of the day to the conditioning process, Herdic added.

As testimony to the care of the rink there was excellent skating there last Saturday night despite the fact the snow storm which deposited up to nine inches in this area did not pass over the city until late in the afternoon.

Again Tuesday the ice was cleared when the rink opened at 3 p.m. although it had snowed most of the

Rip M'Manus Is Winner of Pico Race Saturday

Rip McManus with a total of 10 points won the first series of races sponsored Saturday at Pico for the racing group of the Recreation Department's ski program.

McManus, by his win, moved into Class B along with Bob Hiller, Kim Chaffee, Greg McClellan and Terry Fletcher, who placed second, third, fourth and fifth behind him.

Mrs. Anne Jones, who supervised the races, said the children must each obtain six points before moving up from Class C to Class B.

Mrs. Jones was assisted in running the races by Joe Jones, Dave Lawrence, Barry Burke and Mrs. H. Stetson Fletcher.

There will be two more series of races staged for the group prior to the Rutland Winter Carnival, which will be held Washington's Birthday week-end.

Results of Saturday's events follow:

Class B—McManus, 1.01.3 10 pts.; Hiller, 1.05.3, 9 pts.; Chaffee, 1.06.5, 8 pts.; McClellan, 1.06.8, 7 pts.; Fletcher, 1.11.8, 6 pts.

Class C—Joan Anderson, 1.62, 5 pts.; Hank McManus, 1.62, 5 pts.; Rocky Chaffee, 1.80.9, 3 pts.; Marsha Fletcher, 2.12.4, 2 pts.; Susan Lewis, 2.36, 1 pt.; Tony Carbine, 2.68.5; Robert Morgan, 2.75.1; Arnold Sherman, 3.36.5; disqualified—Larry Keyes, Pete Franzoni, Joe Vargas and Susy Chaffee.

City to Open Third Rink

Main St. Park Area Added to Meadow St., Rotary Field as Site for Skating Arena.

City skaters will be able to trip the icy fantastic on three rinks when suitable skating weather returns to the area, James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, announced last night.

The recreation head said skaters will be able to use rinks at Meadow St. playground and Main St. Park in addition to the Rotary rink.

The two new areas, however, will be equipped for daytime use only, according to Herdic, who said there will be no lighting facilities available. They will also be without warming-house facilities.

Herdic said the Meadow St. surface was plowed last week by the Department of Public Works, while the Fire Department flooded the area Monday. "The thaw ruined the job," he said.

The Meadow St. rink is 125 feet by 50 feet, the recreation superintendent explained.

The Main St. Park area near the bandstand will be readied when temperatures drop, according to Herdic.

The two new rinks, designed to relieve congestion at the Rotary rink during week-ends, will be under Recreation Department supervision.

The Recreation Committee of the Rutland Chamber of Commerce loosed a blast at the city's skating facilities last week. The committee called for an additional rink in Main St. Park and attacked "poor supervision" at the Rotary area.

The attack evoked stunned surprise from Mayor Dan J. Healy and recreation officials.

It was made even as the Recreation Advisory Committee was planning an additional rink, recreation officials charged. The committee had decided to expand the city's skating facilities to include a rink at the Meadow St. Playground.

Following the meeting, members of the Recreation Committee received several calls from persons interested in a rink at Main St. Park.

It was then decided to provide facilities at that point.

Senior Citizens' Club Adds Five New Members

Following a "Community Sneeze," five new members were welcomed to the Senior Citizens' Club at yesterday's meeting at the Madison St. Recreation Center, according to James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation.

The group played a number of games.

A debate, "Are Men More Vain Than Women," was held.

Refreshments were also served. New members include Mr. and Mrs. Peter Harberg and Mrs. Grace Guernsey, all of 32 West St., Mrs. Nellie Blanchard of 54 Strong Ave. and Mrs. Jennie White of 52 Pine St.

City Carnival Plans Shifted

Revised Program Reported to Be Finest Possible; Ski Race Big Feature.

Difficulty in arranging some of the events as previously scheduled resulted last night in the Executive Committee of the Rutland Winter Carnival shifting the entire carnival program around and adding some additional attractions.

The Executive Committee met in the Chamber office and set the price of all-event advance sale tickets at $2 for adults and $1 for students. Individual admissions would cost adults $3.80 and students $1.95, according to Arthur B. Porter, general chairman of the committee.

Porter said without question the revised program for the third annual carnival is the finest that can be arranged.

The carnival will get underway Friday, Feb. 20, with night skiing and fireworks at Pico Peak. Arrangements for this have been completed with officials of Pico.

Saturday morning the junior ski events will be staged at Rutland Country Club and the cherry pie baking contest arranged by the 4-H will get underway at the Vermont Public Service Corporation office.

A hockey game has been tentatively scheduled for Saturday afternoon, provided suitable competition can be arranged.

The coronation of the Carnival Queen will take place at the ball, an informal affair to be held this year in Memorial Armory Saturday night.

Sunday afternoon the second annual running of the Bradford B. Mead Memorial Slalom will be held at Pico. Invitations have been forwarded to leading skiers throughout the East by the Pico Ski Club, which has charge of this event.

The carnival will close Sunday night with the ice show to be staged by the Juncioneers of Claremont, N. H., augmented by a pair of figure skaters from West Point.

Model Airplane Club To Hold First Exhibition

The Model Airplane Club sponsored and conducted by the Rutland Recreation Department is planning its first exhibition today at 7 p.m.

Paul Hughes of the Wilson Sports Equipment Company will be the judge. Prizes will be donated by his organization to boys who have done the best work.

The Model Airplane Club was organized last fall by the Recreation department with the expressed purpose of teaching boys the correct technique in building models. The club meets every Tuesday afternoon at the Recreation Center immediately after school, and is open to any boy who wishes to learn how to construct a model plane.

Anyone who wishes to see the work accomplished by these boys is welcome to come to the exhibition today.

Right Party

Want to throw a party?

The Recreation Department is ready to provide almost everything except the reason for one.

Both the Recreation Center on Madison St. and the Rotary Field House off North St. are available for parties, dances, and other festivities when the city recreation schedule does not preclude outside activities, according to James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation.

In addition to having two party sites available, the department will plan parties, dances, carnivals, socials, family get-togethers or dinners.

Department personnel will select programs, games and entertainment for all age groups and advise on decorations, publicity and other problems.

The department's service also includes obtaining experienced leadership, on request, for games, dances and hobbies, Herdic said.

Oil Painting Classes To Be Held at Play Center

Want to understand modern painting?

Then it might be worth your while to attend the oil painting classes of the Recreation Department.

Due to begin in the near future, the classes will be taught by Mary Canney. Ten sessions will be held.

The price is $5, but it probably would be worth the price since the classes propose to give the students an understanding of modern abstract painting.

In addition, oil painting technique will be studied together with its application to modern painting.

An organizational meeting of the group will be held at the Madison St. Recreation Center tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Drop Plans For 2 Rinks

Recreation Board Decides to Give Up Meadow St. and Park Area Until Next Year.

Attempts to establish skating rinks at Meadow St. and Main St. park have been abandoned until next year, James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, said yesterday.

The Recreation Advisory Board approved the action at its monthly meeting Wednesday night.

The board voted to include enough funds in the budget to start work on the Meadow St. rink early in the skating season next year.

The board decided in January to try to build up rinks at Meadow St. and in the city park to provide more widely distributed skating facilities than afforded by the Rotary Field rink alone.

Herdic said three separate attempts were made to flood the extra rinks, but the weather and other factors combined to make the efforts unsuccessful.

The temperature warmed up during the day after every flooding attempt, Herdic said. A good skating rink should be built up gradually and not formed in a rush, he pointed out.

At Meadow St., the lack of shelter caused the hose to freeze and extreme discomfort for the workers doing the flooding.

The flooding was done by Water Department and Fire Department personnel.

The board hopes that a building can be constructed for the Meadow St. site before the next winter season, Herdic reported.

The board accepted the resigna-

Tots Walk Off With Model Train Contest

Age was no barrier in competition last night at the second annual model train contest of the City Recreation department.

Peter Herdic, 4½, won first prize in the engine and tender class, Jack Rodgers, 5, was runner-up. Other winners were Paul Hughes Jr., 11, Marx class, and Robert Piper, 11, Diesel class.

A feature of the event attended by 19 competitors and 87 spectators was a father's race between Paul H. Hughes Sr., and Paul H. O'Grady. Hughes' engine and tender entry won.

Judges were Rutland Railway officials Sidney M. Rodgers, general manager, and Patrick E. Slattery, road foreman of engineering. Other line officials in attendance were Gordon W. Cutler, foreman of the machine shop, and Frank O. Eklund, mechanical engineer.

Winning cups were presented to the four young winners by Mrs. Mary H. McMahon, chairman of the Aldermanic Recreation Committee.

The Rutland Railway presented colored pictures of Diesel engines to all children competing.

James F. Herdic Jr., director of the Recreation department, was in charge of contest at the City Recreation Center.

Derby Course Is Established

Hot Rod Race to Be Run Down
Entire Length of Center St.
Hill June 13.

Course for the Hot Rod Derby to be run down Center St. hill June 13 will extend from Court St. to a point about midway between Wales St. and Merchants Row, it was determined yesterday afternoon, following test runs by youngsters with five eligible racers.

Although one of the racers in the test developed brake rod trouble, Louis T. Accavallo, Exchange Club chairman for the affair, said it was determined that the course could encompass the entire hill with safety for the racers.

Seventy-five application blanks have been distributed to prospective entrants, Accavallo said. Deadline for entries will be June 4, when the cars will be taken over by the committee for final inspection and storage until race day.

Entrants will be divided into age groups, one for youngsters from 6 to 8 years of age, another for those between 9 and 11 and the third for 12- to 15-year-olds.

Winner in each group will receive a gold cup. Other trophies will be awarded to second and third place winners. A fourth gold cup will be awarded to the owner of the best built car. Winners and their parents will be guests at a dinner at the Fairmont Restaurant.

Co-sponsor of the affair is the City Recreation Department.

Young Racers Draw 1500

Sponsors Say Interest Warrants Making Annual Event of 'Hot Rod' Derby.

About 1500 Rutlanders watched with obvious enjoyment Saturday as home-made "hot rods" zipped down Center St. hill in the first race of its kind here.

An annual "hot rod" race is warranted by the interest shown in the first one, according to members of the sponsoring Rutland Exchange Club and the Rutland Recreation department.

The three race winners were: Seniors, Joseph LaValley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaValley Sr., of S. Main St.; Junior, Lee Wilson, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle S. Wilson of Jasmine Lane, and midget, Edward Weaver Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Weaver of 225 Lincoln Ave.

Bill Gallagher, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gallagher, 20 Mansfield Pl., had the best-looking racer, a streamlined red-and-white job, according to judges. All cars were made by the boys with their fathers' help.

There wasn't an accident as the cars free-wheeled by two down the course. However, one youngster pushed so hard on his steering wheel in an effort to get speed that he broke it right off.

City police were busy keeping the throng stretching the length of the course from pressing too close to the racing lanes.

Loudspeakers contributed by the Recreation department and Wilson Music Company served to announce the program at both ends of the course. Next year it may be possible to co-ordinate start and finish by means of walkie-talkie sets, according to Louis Accavallo, this year's chairman.

Consolation prizes were awarded Saturday in the two older race classes. Winners were Jimmy O'Grady in the junior class and Paul of the senior class.

Twelve cars were entered in the race and about 20 boys raced in the various heats.

Letters To The Editor

OPPORTUNITY

To the Editor of The Herald: The story of the treatment of Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton by the State Department, as revealed by Marquis Childs, may have one very beneficial result; it gives the President an opportunity to display the courage of a soldier, and the gallantry of a gentleman.

DELINQUENCY

To the Editor of The Herald: Why is it that almost every day when I get my Herald I must see something of juvenile delinquency in and around Rutland. At times I am almost ashamed to let anyone see my paper because of this present condition.

Hasn't anyone ever stopped to figure that there must be some cause for this delinquency? Being a teen-ager myself I know that it is not a young person's nature to commit a criminal offense "just for the heck of it." The average teen-ager craves excitement and fun but how few times anyone ever takes this into consideration!

Just recently the youth center was "scut" because of a juvenile crime. This was the most stupid thing I have ever seen! Instead, why couldn't the youth center have expanded to offer even more recreational facilities? Wouldn't that be more logical than closing the place? Some people seem to forget just what a teen-ager thinks and needs.

Ever since I moved from Mississippi to Proctor, two years ago, I've had a great liking for Vermont. In fact, I would like to make my home in Vermont permanently, and, I think everyone knows that to turn a "Rebel" into a New Englander it takes some doing. Now why can't we keep it that way? Why can't Vermont uphold its beauty and appeal without this delinquency to mar it?

Safety Slogan Prizes Today

Grand Award Winners to Be Named at Jamboree This Morning at Paramount.

A huge crowd of safety-conscious, slogan-writing youngsters is expected to pack the Paramount Theater at 9:30 a. m. today for the Safety Jamboree sponsored by the Traffic Safety Council as the climax to its traffic safety slogan contest.

Grand prize winners will be announced, and awards presented to those submitting the slogans judged best among the more than 12,000 entries in the contest.

A program of movies, featuring cartoons and sports films, will be shown, and local officials will speak briefly.

Jamboree invitation cards have been sent to children who submitted slogans.

A council spokesman asked parents not to accompany their children to the jamboree unless absolutely necessary to leave all possible seats for youngsters.

He suggested younger children be sent with an older brother or sister.

Winners at Mount St. Joseph's Academy and Rutland High School were announced yesterday by William N. Ward, chairman of the Traffic Safety Council.

At MSJ, two girls, Katherine McDevitt of 137 Baxter St., a senior and Judy Levine of 35 Kendall Ave., a sophomore, were adjudged the winners.

The high school winners were both members of the freshmen class. Carl Guyette of 45½ Madison St. and Betsy Tuttle of 41 Roberts Ave.

The four students will receive special high school awards of reserved seat tickets to the Southern Vermont Basketball Tournament. James F. Herdic Jr., recreation superintendent, will serve as master of ceremonies at the jamboree.

Mayor Dan J. Healy, Raymond C. Taft Jr., president of the Rutland Chamber of Commerce, and a representative of the Traffic Safety Council will be guests.

Judges who selected the winning slogans were Sgt. Albert Christie of the State Police; Police Chief J. Fred Carbone; David Rosen, automotive parts dealer; D. Anderson Hyde, Safety Council member and regional manager of the Vermont Transit Company; John Hayden, insurance adjuster; and Herdic.

Deadline Tonight For 'Hot Rod' Derby Entries

The deadline for entering cars in the "hot rod" derby to be conducted Saturday morning on Center St. hill is this evening.

The "hot rods" are supposed to be taken to the Rutland Memorial Armory today in order to be inspected before the big race.

A parade of the vehicles and their drivers from the Armory to the starting point of the race at Court and Center Sts. will begin at 9 a. m. Saturday.

The races are scheduled to begin at 9:30 a. m. with competition divided into three age groups, 6 to 8, 9 to 11 and 12 to 15.

The contest is being sponsored by the Exchange Club in co-operation with the Rutland Recreation department.

Cass Michaels of the Philadelphia Athletics was christened Casimir Eugene Kwiecienski.

Register 40 Derby Racers

Inspect Vehicles for 'Hot Rod' Race Tomorrow on Center St. Hill.

About 40 gravity-powered racing cars will be at the starting line tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. for the first Rutland "hot rod" races down Center St. Hill.

The racers are co-sponsored by the Rutland Recreation Department and The Exchange Club for boys 6 through 15.

The home-made vehicles were registered following a safety inspection last night in the Rutland armory. Inspectors were Francis Levine and Theodore W. Libby, inspector of the Motor Vehicle Department. Louis Accavalllo is general race chairman.

The cars were checked to see that all complied with regulations of construction. Ball-bearing wheels are not permitted and steering must be by steel cable.

The cars were left at the armory last night and will not be touched by their owners until race time. They will be towed to the starting point at Court and Center Sts. about 9 a. m.

The racers will be given official arm patches and football crash helmets.

The boys will race in pairs to the finish line in front of the Paramount Theater.

No traffic will be permitted on Center St. between Court and Wales Sts., and no eastbound traffic will be permitted to cross the intersection or turn west on Center St. between heats.

Hot Rod Race This Morning

Youngsters to Battle It Out on Center St. Hill Starting at 9:30 A.M.

Home-built "hot rods" made by Rutland youngsters with help from Dad will battle it out today about 9:30 a.m. on Center St. Hill.

The power will be provided by gravity but preliminary tests show there'll be speed enough for anyone down the rapid incline.

In fact, officials ruled out ball-bearing when it was found racers of that type picked up more speed than the young drivers could safely handle.

Cars were checked and registered Friday night at the armory and will be towed to the starting line at Court and Center Sts. this morning. The finish line is in front of the Paramount Theater.

There will be loudspeakers at both ends of the course as the racers come down in pairs during the various race classifications.

The races, first of their kind in Rutland, are co-sponsored by the Rutland Recreation Department and the Exchange Club for boys six through 15.

The boys will race in pairs and first heat is scheduled for 9:30 a.m.

No traffic will be permitted on Center St. between Court and Wales, and no eastbound traffic between Wales St. and Merchants Row. No parking will be allowed on the south side of the Center St. and merchants' company's driveway and the theater will be covered.

Wales St. traffic will be permitted to cross the intersection or turn west on Center St. between heats.

The home-made vehicles were built at a cost under $25.

Traffic will be restricted in the race area during the event.

Reward Day

Mayor Joins In Fun at Bicycle Patrol Field Day

Mayor Dan J. Healy may be an odds-on favorite in an election steeplechase, but as a bike racer he's purely a field horse.

Trouble is His Honor is too fast. A last-minute entry in the slow bicycle race at the school bicycle patrol's field day yesterday, "Scorcher" Dan covered the course in 30 seconds. Pam Barrett and Eric Peterson dawdled a 39-second dead heat to win.

About 50 boys and girls attended the outing, sponsored jointly by the city police and recreation departments in tribute to the youngsters, whom they regard as a first-rate safety organization.

The slow race was only one of a number of races and other events on the Rotary Field program. The mayor presented prizes to the winners and to Pam Barrett, designated as best patrol captain, and Judy Ryan, adjudged best patrolman.

Winners in other events were—Speed races, Karen Kennedy and Mike Stevens; newspaper throw, John Angelis and James Stafford; softball throw for girls, Louise Clarke; ball throw for boys, Robert Donahue; circle 8 on bicycle, William Devenow; sack race, William Harvey and Claire Padolicchia; ball push, James Eno and John Canfield.

The prizes included roller skates, flashlights, scout knives, baseball caps, theater tickets, painting sets, jerseys and bicycle equipment. They were donated by these merchants: Wilson Sports Equipment Company, the Economy Store, Waterman's Hardware, Strauss Stores, Inc., Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, Montgomery Ward, Landen's Hardware, Eastman's, Ray Beane, Inc., and the Paramount Theater.

The General Ice Cream Corporation and the Coca-Cola Bottling Corporation donated refreshments.

Representing the recreation department were James F. Herdic Jr., director, Richard Pasvolsky, assistant, and Joel Sherburne. The police department was represented by Chief J. Fred Carbone and Officers Emmett Fleming and Francis Ryan.

THOSE TENNIS COURTS
To the Editor of The Herald: A few years ago the City of Rutland spent a considerable amount of money for public tennis courts at the Rotary Field. These were appreciated by sports enthusiasts long unable to enjoy the game.

Today, these courts are in a deplorable condition, hardly fit for use. They need to be rolled, marked, and sprayed to kill the grass. It would seem that the city authorities should provide for the maintenance of these courts throughout the season.

Fishing Derby Prizes To Be Awarded Here Today

Prizes for the children's fishing derby conducted by the Rutland Fish and Game Club in cooperation with the Recreation Department will be awarded at 6:30 p.m. today at the Universalist Church.

Parents of the young rod-and-reelers have been invited to the affair. Refreshments will be served.

The fishing contest was held June 6 in Tenney Brook.

It seems to me that I recall reading that there was to be an admission charged for the use of the courts this summer. If this charge is the only way to ensure proper care of the city's property, then it should be levied, and the necessary improvements made and maintained throughout the season.

Story of Near Drowning At Pool Related

Fourteen-year-old Esther Belden last night was happily preparing to celebrate the Fourth with her sister, Marsha, at their home at 98 Strong Ave.

For Esther it was to be a very special kind of celebration, because it almost wasn't. On Monday, she was pulled out of the municipal swimming pool, all but dead from accidental drowning.

Last night she appeared to be fully recovered from her experience and was able to tell what she could remember of what happened.

Esther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden, could not swim and had never been at the pool before. She joined a class of intermediates, made up of youngsters around her own age.

She said that when the instructor told the class it was time to enter the water, she plunged in with the rest at the five-foot level of the pool.

She recalled "threshing around" and going beneath the surface twice, but was unable to call for help because of water she had swallowed. She remembered sinking a third time, but could recall nothing more until she heard someone mention the name "Esther" as she was being carried to the ambulance.

She was pulled out of the water by Joanne Duffy, senior instructor at the pool, given artificial respiration by Norman Bruce, a life guard, and worked over by firemen with an inhalator before being taken to the hospital.

Esther's mother said friends and neighbors have asked repeatedly since the accident, "what happened?"

"What happened was simply that she got in the wrong class by mistake and jumped into five feet of water," Mrs. Belden said.

Mrs. Belden had been quoted by police and Dr. James J. Reedy, who treated Esther at the pool and at the hospital, as telling them the girl had suffered from fainting spells.

The playgrounds' Fourth of July celebration will get underway Friday at 2 p. m. with a treasure hunt for children eight and younger and novelty races for children nine and older.

Kiwanis Posts 12-0 Win Over Elks; Rotary Nips Lions Club Nine, 2 to 1

Larry Holden threw a no-hitter at the Elks to pace the Kiwanis to a 12-0 triumph and Walter Scott beat Roy Carpenter in a tight pitching duel as the Rotary edged the Lions, 2-1, in the second game of a Midget League doubleheader last night at Rotary Field.

Holden also led his teammates at the plate with three hits in four times at bat, including a double and a home run. Norm Gilman chipped in with a single and homer.

Scott struck out 13 batters and his mound opponent fanned 14 in one of the best tilts to come out of the league this season.

Rotary was blanked until the fifth inning when it combined walks to Dick Ellison and Wintrop Davis and a base clearing single by Bill Davidson for two runs.

The Lions picked up their only tally in the sixth as Bill West singled and Bundsie Keefe belted a triple to drive him in.

Girl Rescued At City Pool

Quick Action by Instructor Is Credited With Saving Life of 14-Year-Old Esther Belden.

Quick action by an instructor and a life guard, with the help of firemen and police, was credited with saving 14-year-old Esther Belden of 98 Strong Ave. from drowning in the Municipal Swimming Pool yesterday.

Her life all but snuffed out in an incident which late last night had not been entirely explained, the child was recovering in Rutland Hospital, where her physician said her condition appeared good, although she still was suffering from shock.

Information gathered by police and James F. Herde Jr., city recreation director, revealed that the girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden, went to the pool for the first time yesterday and joined a class for intermediate swimmers, although apparently she was not a swimmer.

About 10:45 a. m. Miss Joanne Duffy, senior instructor and assistant manager of the pool, spotted the still form of the child, submerged and in a "jackknife" position near the 7-foot depth marker on the south side of the pool.

Miss Duffy dove in, brought the child out and called Norman Bruce, life guard, who immediately applied artificial respiration to the unconscious form.

Maxwell Moculewski, pool manager, summoned firemen, who raced to the pool with an inhalator and oxygen apparatus. Meanwhile, Moculewski had called police and Dr. James J. Reedy.

When he was unable to detect a heartbeat, Dr. Reedy ordered the child rushed to the hospital in an ambulance. Police sirens cleared the way.

At the hospital the girl was revived and put under an oxygen tent, where she recovered rapidly.

"She had a mighty close call," said Dr. Reedy, "and only splendid teamwork on the part of everybody concerned saved her."

Dr. Reedy, firemen and police all were loud in their praise of the quick action of Miss Duffy and Bruce, whom they credited with preserving the girl's thin thread of life.

Investigators were of the opinion that the child, who could recall little of what had happened, suffered from shock or a fainting spell from sudden immersion in the cold water.

Policemen and Dr. Reedy said the child's mother told them she had been subject to fainting spells. The girl had been attending a rehabilitation clinic because of a spinal condition. Mrs. Belden was quoted as telling investigators the trip to the pool had been recommended as an aid to recovery.

First Outdoor Square Dance Attracts 250

Some 250 youngsters hoed 'er down to a fare-you-well last night at the city recreation department's first square dance of the season in the municipal parking lot off College St.

A lot of the tunes were new to devotees of the old-fashioned barn dance and some of the gyrations of the jitterbug set would have sent many an old-timer spinning, but the music had all the familiar foot-tapping lilt of the past and Richard Pasovsky, assistant superintendent of recreation, did himself proud in the role of caller.

Over the loudspeaker came such tunes as "Honolulu Baby," "Texas Star," "I'm a Bum," "Lady Round the Lady," "Red River Valley" and others less familiar. And there were such old favorites as "Virginia Reel," "The Mocking Bird" and "Darling Nellie Gray."

The usual mixups added to the jollity. Some sashayed when they should have promenaded. Some swung left when they should have swung right, but the footing was good, the night was perfect, and everybody had a whale of a time.

Last night's dance was one of three planned for the summer. The others will be held July 23 and Aug. 20.

Seven Up Nine Blanks Cohen Brothers, 5 to 0, On Shappy's One-Hitter

Harmy Bove's Seven Up softballers grabbed sole possession of first place in the Rutland Softball League last night as Russ Shappy hurled a brilliant one-hitter at Cohen Brothers to pace his teammates to a 5-0 victory.

Dom Ferraro, John O'Rourke and Shappy led the winners at the plate with two hits each.

Red Kennedy's bingle in the second inning was the only hit Cohen Brothers could manage to get off Shappy. They had only three base runners throughout the entire contest, two of them reaching on walks.

Summer Basketball League Planned by City Recreation

Plans to form a men's outdoor basketball league for summer play were announced yesterday by Richard L. Pasovsky, assistant superintendent of recreation.

The league will be limited this year to Rutland teams, but otherwise will be similar to the basketball loop organized in previous years, Pasovsky said. Games will be played at Rotary Field.

Joel Sherburne, Rotary Field supervisor, will be in charge.

A meeting for team leaders and those interested in playing will be held tomorrow at 7 p. m. at Rotary Field.

Thomas Softballers Notch 21-11 Win Over Railway

Eddie Clifford and John Phillips each collected four hits in six trips to the plate to pace Thomas' Restaurant to a 21-11 triumph over the Rutland Railway nine last night in Rutland Softball League play.

Ken Walker connected for a home run and Pelkey and Ross each had two for four showings for the losers.

Tonight VFW is scheduled to play Rudolph's. In the Fat and Thirty League Howe Scale will meet the Lions at Meadow St. Field and CVPS No. 2 will tangle with CVPS No. 1 at the CVPS diamond.

Enrollment Starts in Free Dog Obedience Training Classes at Rotary Field

Enrollment began last night in free dog obedience training classes, sponsored jointly by the city recreation department and the Otter Valley Obedience Club.

Several youngsters arrived with their pets and were checked in for the eight-week course. Enrollments will be made until classes start at 7 p. m. next Tuesday at the Rotary Fieldhouse.

Any dog more than eight months old and in good condition may be entered by boys and girls between 10 and 16 years. Classes will be held each Tuesday night until Aug. 25, when graduation exercises will be held. Certificates and prizes will be awarded at the end of the course. Young handlers may enter dogs with previous training for a refresher course.

Training leads and collars will be provided by the Otter Valley Club. Any young handler who attends all classes and takes part in the graduation exercises, may keep his lead and collar.

All graduates of previous Otter Valley courses are eligible to attend practice sessions. At the end of the summer, four regular members and two alternates will be chosen to represent the Rutland club at the American Kennel Club's trials throughout New England and New York, state, preparatory to the fall show season.

Mrs. Jean Hendee and James Quinn, Otter Valley Club training instructors, will have charge of the classes. Reservations may be made by phoning Mrs. A. G. Wilder, training class secretary, or by appearing at the opening session Tuesday night, with the pet to be trained.

City Recreation

Another busy season at Rutland's eight playgrounds opened this week, supplementing other activities already started including swimming, baseball and tennis at Rotary field. An intensive program of special events has been prepared for the season by the Recreation Department.

Although Rutland has a year-around municipal program of recreation, we are accustomed to thinking of the summer months when children are out of school as the peak of the season. There is a great variety of outdoor activity for youngsters to choose from and a greater need of such activity to occupy their time. There has been a steady improvement in the program without any major increase in expense thanks to efficient supervision by trained and experienced personnel. It seems to us that Rutland gets more than its money's worth from the recreation program.

No survey has ever been made to prove that Rutland has more families than the average community with both father and mother working, but it is our impression that this is true. This means more than the average number of children who lack parental supervision during a good part of each day. The recreation program cannot take the place of such supervision, but it can help to make up for the lack of it.

A majority of families do not need to be urged to take advantage of the city recreation program. They are too familiar with its benefits for their children. But there are others who may be unacquainted with the program or misled concerning it. They should be reminded that the city has a first class program of recreation for all age groups and that it is available for all to use and participate in. The aim is healthier, happier children and a better community.

Postoffice Nine Defeats Diamond Squares, 8 to 4

The Post Office nine posted an 8-4 victory over the Diamond Squares in eight innings last night at the Rotary Field in one of the best games played in the Fat and Thirty League this season.

Don Daley starred on the mound and at the plate for the winners and teammates Bill Considine and Hugh Vargas also did some heavy hitting. Sam Terrill and Blair Brown paced the losers at the plate in the well played contest.

Playgrounds Open Today

City's Eight Areas for Supervised Recreations to Be Closed Week-Ends.

Rutland's eight playgrounds are ready to open today for the summer season with a program of special events, arts and crafts, games and other fun for the city's vacationing youngsters. James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, said yesterday.

The opening day will consist of registration and a paper bag puppet parade at each of the playgrounds, Herdic said.

The organized recreation program is intended for those five through 16, but there are sandboxes and apparatus on all playgrounds for younger children.

Hours of the playgrounds will be 9:30 a.m. to noon, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, except that the evening session will be omitted on Fridays.

Playgrounds will not be open Saturdays and Sundays.

The craft program developed by Miss Mary Canney calls for instruction in one major and three minor crafts each week at the playgrounds. Crafts will be taught both morning and afternoon.

Major crafts include gimp work, jersey loopers, felt craft, stenciling, soap carving, figurines molded from patching plaster, puppets and Indian work.

In addition to crafts, the daily program will include games, storytelling, singing and dramatics.

Playgrounds and supervisors are: Rotary Field, Marie Louras and Joel Sherburne; Meadow St., Eddie Kupic and Marianne Rice; Meldon, Shirley O'Neill and Norma Marsh; Dana, Dan Allen and Nancy Le-Francois; Stratton Rd., Robert Thurston and Charlene Ryan; Park St., Terry Hannon and Patricia Mauer; Watkins Ave., Alden Atwood and Theodora Phillips; and Kingsley, Marjorie Kenyon.

Special events will be the same each week for each playground. The calendar is:

June 24, costume parade; June 25, outdoor square dance; June 30, picnic supper; July 1, doll show; July 3, Fourth of July celebration; July 7, picnic supper; July 8, dog show; July 9, square dance; July 13, scavenger hunt; July 14, picnic supper; July 15, on wheels parade; July 21, picnic supper; July 22, watermelon eating contest; July 23, outdoor square dance; July 27, pigtail contest; July 29, carnivals at Rotary and Meadow; Aug. 3, button contest; Aug. 4, picnic supper; Aug. 5, cat show; Aug. 6, square dance; Aug. 10, turtle race; Aug. 12, bat show; Aug. 19, field day; Aug. 20, outdoor square dance.

The playgrounds will close Aug. 21. A fishing rodeo will be held Aug. 22 at Lake Bomoseen.

Heat Fails To Wilt Opening Of Playgrounds

6:30 to 8 p. m. general recreation activities.

Despite continued hot weather, the city's eight playgrounds were off to a flying start yesterday for the opening of the 1963 summer season, James F. Herdic Jr., superintendent of recreation, said.

Although figures are not yet available, Herdic said attendance at all city play centers was good and would probably exceed opening days of the previous two years.

A paper mask puppet parade featured the first day of the playground season.

The arts and crafts program will get underway at the playgrounds today under the supervision of Miss Mary Canney.

Herdic said the following daily program of activities will be observed at all playgrounds in addition to special events scheduled: 9:30 a. m. to 11: games; 11 a. m. to noon, crafts; 1:30 to 3 p. m., stories and games; 3 to 4:30 p. m., crafts;

Scavenger Hunt Tops Schedule At Playgrounds

A scavenger hunt, in which the competitors may be called upon to secure anything from an Indian-head coin to the signature of a city official, heads the list of playground activities planned for this week by the Rutland Recreation department. Director James F. Herdic Jr., announced yesterday.

The scavenger hunt will be held today at 8:30 p.m., one on each playground. Each team, consisting of six people, will be given a list of 20 assorted odd articles to be found and brought back to the judges. The first team in with all the items wins. Prizes are planned for the top team in each playground.

On Tuesday, picnic suppers will be held at each playground at 6 p.m. At Rotary Field, square dance expert Richard Pasvolsky will call at a dance following the supper. At the other playgrounds games are scheduled for after the eating hour.

An "On Wheels Parade," in which children will decorate "everything that rolls" according to Herdic, will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. Prizes will be given to those doing the best job of decorations on vehicles ranging from baby carriages to two-wheeled bicycles. Awards will be given for the most original decorations as well as the best looking.

In addition, the regular daily program of activities will continue as usual, Herdic said. The daily schedule includes games from 9:30-11 a.m. and crafts at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. There is also a "quiet games" and story-telling period from 1:30-3 p.m. each day.

Redskins Invade Playgrounds For Fun Fest

Playground attempts to simulate real, live Indians yesterday drew a yelp of approval from Big Chief James F. Herdic Jr., who judged the eight playground exhibits based on Indian themes.

Herdic, superintendent of recreation, said all exhibits were very well done. The arts and crafts departments of the playground last week held "Indian Week," devoted to the construction of sandbox scenes of Indian life and preparation of paper and birch bark canoes and tepees.

The Meadow St. tribal sandbox won the prize for the most original exhibit, while Rotary Field braves and squaws constructed the most elaborate exhibit. Kingsley's sandbox was the best decorated, while top workmanship was displayed by the Dana tribe.

Stratton Rd.'s work was cited as the best scene. The playground "Indians" there set up a massacre, depicting Indians whooping into a frontier town to cut down the villagers. The scene was complete with covered wagons and white settlers fighting off the onslaught.

Three fierce Indians of the Stratton Rd. "reservation" pose in front of their tepee. Warrior with the bow and arrow is Paul Hughes Jr.; the squaw is Julia Aquistapace; and the brave in short trousers is Patrick Slattery.

July 31 City Playground Checker Champs Are Announced

Paul Anderson, representing Watkins Ave. playground, and Peter Lubinsky, representing Dana playground, are the new city checker champions in the tournament conducted by the Recreation Department.

Anderson won the junior division title among contestants 11 and under, and Lubinsky captured the senior division championship.

The contest among the individual playground champions was held this week.

In the junior division, Anderson defeated Paul Hughes of Stratton Rd., victor over David Cioffi of Meadow St., and Jim Reedy of Meldon, who won over Marvin Johnson of Rotary Field.

Lubinsky took the senior division championship with victories over Sonny Gallo of Meadow St., who defeated Nick Ezzo of Park St., and Betty Fucci of Meldon, semi-final winner over Bill Little of Rotary.

Triple Play By Wilson's Tops Midget League

A triple play in the fifth inning saved the day for Wilson's as the club defeated the Elks in Midget League play last night by a score of 7-6.

Pratt, pitcher for the Elks' aggregation hit a hot liner to Sabotka, on the mound for Wilson's, to set up the play, which was undoubtedly the turning point in the game.

Sabotka tossed the ball to Glen Cox at third for the second out and Cox rifled it across the diamond to Billy Carroll at first to get the third out. It was the first triple play in memory of Midget League officials.

Score by innings:

July 30 Outdoor Dance Draws 400; Last One of Season on Aug. 20

Upwards of 400 persons, young and old, gathered at the city's asphalt-paved parking lot yesterday for an old-fashioned square dance held outside on a chilly-for-August night.

Some came to dance, and others came to watch. Youngsters who came simply to enjoy the excitement of a crowd were there in sizeable numbers.

Fifty and more from teen-age to middle-age and beyond swung their partners to the expert calling of Richard Pasvolsky, assistant superintendent of recreation, and the recorded strains of "Swanee River," "Golden Slippers" and other old favorites.

Some of the dancers swung through the figures with ease, while others, less experienced, showed uncertainty at times.

A group of 6- and 7-year-old girls danced to figures of their own childish invention, ignoring the caller stationed on the back of a truck parked near the center of the lot.

Spectators were seated on wooden benches along the parking meter walls and in automobiles, while a few who apparently live close by brought their own rocking chairs.

Everybody watched while the "Green Mountaineers" gave an exhibition of the precision with which the most intricate and complex square dance figures can be performed.

Using six couples at a time, the square dance group danced a series of "All-American Squares," routines worked out by Pasvolsky from figures borrowed from New England, Southern and Western folk dances.

Last night's dance was an "extra" scheduled by the Recreation Department because of the popularity with which the outdoor affairs have been received.

More than 700 attended the previous dance, second in the series originally scheduled. The last outdoor affair of the season will be held Aug. 20.

The "Green Mountaineers," organized by Pasvolsky about 18 months ago, have already appeared at several dances, festivals and carnivals in Vermont.

The group will give an exhibition tomorrow at the 200th centennial celebration of New Salem, Mass., and has been invited to give an exhibition Nov. 15 at the Fall Festival of the New Jersey Callers Association at Elizabeth, N. J. Pasvolsky will be a guest caller at the New Jersey event.

In addition to the "All-American Squares," the dance unit will perform two contra, or line, dances typical of Vermont-New Hampshire country dancing at the New Salem centennial.

Members are Mr. and Mrs. John Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Catozzi, Mr. and Mrs. Darrow McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. George Laird, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Getty Page, Mr. and Mrs. George Conlon, Miss Jean Whitcomb and Emile Boselli.

All the members are from Rutland except the Marshalls. He is principal of Middlebury High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Newhall of Manchester, Me., former Rutland residents, still dance with the group occasionally.

City 'Zell Ball' Title To Be Decided Today

The city "zell ball" championship will be decided at a tournament to be conducted by the Recreation Department today at 10 a. m. at Main St. park among winning players at the city's eight playgrounds.

For the uninitiated, Richard Pasvolsky, assistant superintendent of recreation, explained, a "zell ball" is a ball suspended on a rope from a pole. Two players, stationed at opposite sides of the pole with paddles, bat the ball in opposite directions in an effort to entwine the ropes around the pole. The one who succeeds first is the winner.

The game is one of the more popular pastimes at the playgrounds, Pasvolsky said.

Age 16-18, boys, 40-yard free-style — William Reardon, Rudy Bierwirth. Girls — Sandra Terenzini, Donna Monroe.

Age 18 and over, boys, backstroke — Arthur LaSante, Rudy Bierwirth. Girls — Donna Monroe, Joan Looker.

Boys' diving — Mike Garcia, Arthur Knox. Girls — Lyn Prespare, Joanna Taft.

Flags for decorations were provided by the Cities Service Station at N. Main and Woodstock Ave., balloons were donated by Wolk's Tots and Teens store, and movie passes for race winners were donated by the managers of the local theaters.

First Event of Type Includes Races, Ballet, Diving and Clown Acts.

Water ballet, swimming races, diving contests and clown acts staged by an enthusiastic group of Rutland youngsters brought an estimated 1200 people to twin performances at the Municipal Swimming Pool of the city's first Water Carnival yesterday.

Maxwell A. Mozulewski, manager of the pool, and Richard Pasvolsky, assistant recreation director, joined in proclaiming the carnival "a great success" and added they had not expected the audience for the amateur events would be nearly so large.

The afternoon program of races for different age groups, clown acts, water ballet and diving contests and diving exhibition was repeated in the evening, under flood and spotlights. The pool was decorated with red, white and green banners strung across wires and the many-hued costumes of the swimmers added to the color of the scene.

The senior ballet was performed by a group of girls directed by Miss Joanne Duffy, lifeguard, and included a "train" ballet to the tune of "The Atchison, Topeka and the Santa Fe" and a military number.

Miss Jean Smith and Mrs. June Pratt directed other groups, performing a "rope" ballet and others.

In between acts, a group of clowns misbehaved in comic fashion around the pool and on the diving boards.

A non-scheduled feature of the program was a diving exhibition by William Ferwell, a student at Amherst College.

Red Cross certificates were presented by Mozulewski to a number of boys and girls for beginner and intermediate swimming and Junior Life Saving in the afternoon, and for Senior Life Saving in the evening.

Ribbons were awarded first and second place winners in each of the competitions.

The contests and ribbon winners were as follows in the afternoon:

Age 9-12, boys, 25 yards free style — David Gouchoe, William Harvey. Girls — Brenda Wright, Esther Dunn.

Age 13-15, boys, 40-yard free-style — Timothy Reardon, Arthur LaSante. Girls — Sandra Terenzini, Lynda Prespare.

Age 6-8 boys, tube race — Robert Johnston, Gail Little, Girls — Lois Wright, Kathleen Carbine.

Age 12-15, boys, 40-yard backstroke — Arthur LaSante, Timothy Reardon. Girls — Donna Monroe, Betty Jane Reedy.

Age 9-12, girls, leg-tied race — Jane McCue, Marcia Fletcher.

Age 9-12, boys, 25-yard backstroke — Lon Champney, Walter Blake. Girls — Marcia Fletcher, Judy Bowen.

Age 12-15, boys, diving — Stephen Cops, David Gouchoe. Girls — Lynda Prespare, Joan Young.

In the evening the winners were as follows:

BEVY OF BEAUTIES: These girls will perform in the senior ballet act to be held in connection with the Rutland Swimming Pool Water Carnival to be given today from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 8:30 p. m. The girls are (front, l. to r.): Robin Prespare, Mary Bordeau, Betty Jean Reedy and Mary Lou Reedy. In center is Joan Looker. Standing are (l. to r.): Nancy Johnson, Mary Prespare and Joanna Taft.

Playgrounds To Hold Field Day Here Tomorrow

The annual field day for Rutland youngsters from seven through 13, sponsored by the Recreation department, will be held tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Rotary Field.

Mayor Dan J. Healy will award trophy cups at 1 p.m. to the first place winners in the various boys' and girls' contests in junior and senior divisions.

Those attending will bring their own lunches. Ice cream and soft drinks will be served at 12:30 p.m.

Two participants from each playground will be entered in each event. Each child may enter only one contest.

Events scheduled in the junior division for those seven through 10 are: Boys, 30-yard dash, tire race, crab race and ball push; girls, 30-yard dash, six-potato race, tire race and balloon race.

Senior events for those 11 through 13 are: Boys, 50-yard dash, sack race, baseball throw and running bases; girls, 40-yard dash, sack race, softball pitch and volleyball serve.

Working under the direction of Richard Pasvolsky, assistant superintendent of recreation, will be the following playground supervisors: Dan Allen, Joe Levins, Al Atwood, Robert Thurston, Terry Hannon, Joel Sherburne, Ed Kupic, Peggy Ryan, Nance LaFrancois, Norma Marsh, Marlene Rice, Teddy Phillips, Patricia Mauer, Charlene Ryan and Marie Louras.

Final Outdoor Square Dance Attracts Many

Between 800 and 900 persons attended the last regularly scheduled outdoor square dance of the season Thursday night at the municipal parking lot.

Richard Pasvolsky, assistant superintendent of recreation, said that, in response to several requests, another outdoor affair may be held in mid-September if the weather is favorable.

Chick Wells and his orchestra from Woodstock played for Thursday's dancing.

Guest callers included Pasvolsky, Frank Riley of Woodstock, C. Getty Page of Rutland, Jack James of Randolph and Miss Marjorie Wellwood of Springfield.

The outdoor square dances, initiated this year, proved to be one of the most popular events scheduled by the Recreation department, which hopes to hold another series next summer, Pasvolsky said.

The department and the Prom-N-8 Square Dance Club, which sponsored the outdoor dances, expressed gratitude to the Rutland Police department, Stowell's, Inc., Joe Crowley and the Central Vermont Public Service Corporation for their co-operation in holding the dances.

All Playgrounds And Pool Close Season Today

Rutland's eight city playgrounds and the municipal swimming pool will close today after a successful summer season, Richard Pasvolsky, assistant superintendent of recreation, said yesterday.

The playground carnival held Wednesday at Rotary Field wound up the special events program on the playgrounds for the summer.

The water carnival held last week was the feature event of the season at the municipal swimming pool.

Annual Fishing Derby Set For This Saturday

A fishing derby for children 15 and under will be held Saturday at the Flotbridge on Lake Bomoseen under the auspices of the Rutland Recreation Department.

The young anglers will meet at 8:30 a.m. at the Madison St. Recreation Center, from where a bus will leave at 8:45 a.m.

The fishing party will return to Rutland at 1 p.m. Children attending will bring their own lunches.

Prizes for the derby donated by Better Fishing, Inc., are being displayed in a window of the Wilson Sports Equipment Company on Center St.

Sure Thing

The slowest turtle in Rutland won a race yesterday.

"Pokey," property of six-year-old Karen Quigley, walked off with the honors at Melton playground during a tortoise race sponsored by the recreation department.

He didn't have to overextend himself, either.

He was the only turtle in the race.

Tesconi Paces Meadow St. To Softball Championship

Bud Tesconi pitched and batted the Meadow St. softballers to the 1953 Playround championship yesterday afternoon at the Meadow St. Field with a 9-8 victory over Stratton-Melton in a 10-inning contest.

Tesconi hit safely in four of six trips to the plate and teammates Sammy Gallo and Joe Sabatino each chipped in with two base raps each.

Meadow St. will meet the All-Stars next week in the final game of the season.

Four Rutland Teams Beaten

All Local Entries in Vermont Amateur Softball District Play Suffer Losses.

The four Rutland teams playing in the Vermont Amateur Softball Association's district playoffs failed to pass the test today as all of them went down to defeat.

At White River Junction Seven Up, top team in the Rutland Softball League, was beaten in its bid for the district championship by the Hartford VFW, 4-3. In the first game of the afternoon Seven Up defeated the Ludlow Owls, 6-1.

Dip Dipalma and Jim Phillips paced the Rutlanders in both games.

Cohen Brothers edged St. Albans, 5-4, in their first game at Burlington, but MacGregor's of Burlington bounced back to smother the local entry, 17-0, for the district title.

The remaining Rutland teams failed to get past the first game as Bennington slammed Rosenblatt's, 20-10, at Springfield. Dom Colluti was the only standout for the losers as he belted a home run to pace the offense. The Springfield Elks defeated Bennington in the finals, 12-8, behind the pitching of Les Stankiewich and the hitting of Dick Fullam and Doug Johnston. The Elks gained the finals by nipping Brattleboro, 7-6, in the most thrilling game of the day.

Whitey's of Burlington lowered the boom on the Howe Scale, 17-7, to oust the final Rutland team from the annual tourney.

Five district winners will play at Springfield Aug. 23 for the state championship and a crack at the New England regionals.

Diamond Squares Trounce Postoffice Nine, 15-9

Jerry LaMoria and Max Moczułewski led a 15-hit attack last night at the CV Field as the Diamond Squares slammed the Postoffice, 15-9, in a Fat and Thirty League game. Carnivals At Playgrounds To Start Tomorrow

The third annual playground carnival sponsored by the Rutland Recreation Department will begin tomorrow at 6 p.m. at Meadow St. playground and Rotary Field.

Watkins Ave., Kingsley and Park St. playgrounds will participate in the Meadow St. carnival. Stratton Rd., Meldon and Dana play centers will be at Rotary Field.

The carnivals are designed to provide fun and entertainment for the whole family, young and old.

Each playground will provide the material for several games and activities. In addition to the game booths, soft drinks will be sold.

Activities scheduled at each carnival include balloons and darts, clothes-pins in bottles, fish pond, rubber ring toss, ball throw, bean bag toss, washer toss, toothpick blow, ring toss on chair, peanut toss into muffin tin and checker snap.

A small charge will be made for tickets for the games, and tickets will be awarded to winners at the games.

Decorations will be provided by each playground.

In the event of rain, the carnivals will be held Thursday.
